My family in Christ,

I am excited by the direction in which the ELCA is moving. Attending this year's Church wide Assembly has not only taught me that being a Lutheran means giving of one's hands, heart, voice, and other resources to make sure that those in need have safe homes, adequate food and water, and a chance to thrive as well as learn the good news of Jesus' sacrifice for us; but it has shown me that we are a church that does not stop God's work for any impediment. Times changes and with them our fortunes may also change, but as was reiterated at the assembly often: we are Lutherans and we stay until the work is done. I feel excited to be a part of the church in these times.
